

WOUNDED WARRIOR PROJECT®
ATTN. COMMUNITY EVENTS
4899 BELFORT ROAD, SUITE 300
JACKSONVILLE, FLORIDA 32256

Dear Mr. Mullin:

On behalf of the servicemen and women honored and empowered by Wounded Warrior Project® (WWP), thank you for your commitment to ensuring they are never forgotten. Your community event during our most recently completed fiscal year fueled programs that saved lives; the ripple effect of those investments continues. I am happy to share the enclosed annual report with you, which lists your event on page 39 as one of our most influential community held fundraisers.

Now in our tenth year of service, our audacious goal remains to foster the most successful, well-adjusted generation of wounded service members in our nation's history: Wounded Warriors who are well-adjusted in mind and spirit, well-adjusted in body, and economically empowered. Though we have, together, built an amazing array of programs and services, the work has only just begun. Over the next five years, WWP will explore, design, and pilot new, holistic programming that:

- Supplements traditional, clinical approaches to mental health care to meet the evolving needs of warriors and family members;
- Addresses the lifelong needs of the most severely injured warriors to ensure continuity of community-integrated care, in the most independent and age-appropriate setting, once their caregiver is no longer able;
- Enhances engagement in daily life activities by wounded service members living with cognitive and emotional impairments to achieve maximum independence;
- Educates and informs employers about the benefits of employing injured servicemen and women and reduces the stigma often associated with visible and invisible wounds; and
- Expands vocational training and certification options to provide additional opportunities for economic success and empowerment.

A steadfast commitment to our mission, values, and vision will deliver a promising future for WWP Alumni – men and women who volunteered for service. Together, we will offer them a world where success is not measured by minimum thresholds, and where they flourish and redefine the meaning of recovery. Together, we can build that future.

With gratitude,

Len Stachitas
